

Dear Mrs. Branch,

This is going to be hard to take, but you and the rest of your family need to know that your granddaughter Tracie's husband is a fraud, an alcoholic, and a real sicko. I know this to be true because I graduated from the same California university where Jeremy Parzen claims he got a degree. Jeremy Parzen didn't graduate from there, not in an honorable way anyway. He performed certain "favors" for several faculty and administration members in return for a paper certificate. Everybody knew it, and the sad thing is that he wasn't the only one cheating his way into getting a degree. No actual work, research or scholarship was done by Parzen, it was all presumed to have been done. The kind of "favors" Parzen did for the administration and faculty are so sexually depraved that they cannot be mentioned here. The essay that got him the phd was copied from someone else. That is the most despicable way to get a degree. Parzen is 100% dishonorable.

In school, he always had wine on his breath, a wine bottle close by, and if he had to show up in class for roll call he carried a flask of wine with him. Party time in his room was 24 hours a day, wine and liquor bottles everywhere. He engaged in frequent unprotected sex with both males and females, and maybe some animals you don't even want to know about. You already know he still loves to drink wine. A lot.

As many college girls found out, Parzen is infertile. You should know that those kids Tracie had aren't his. Here's how he impregnated Tracie each time - when they were using one of their many sex toys, he pretended to put some more lubrication on one of them but it was really a sperm sample from one of the college faculty. That was one of the favors Parzen had to do to get that degree, he had to promise to make kids for the professor because the prof wasn't married and didn't expect to ever get married because he was gay but he wanted children. Parzen was the perfect vehicle for the prof's evil desire. How sick is that? That professor and Parzen are going to burn in Hell. Those poor kids think Jeremy Parzen is their dad but he isn't. But you can love them anyway, they are just children and it's not their fault they were born like that.
